

PPS turns 50; PFV, CoMo Promote Meningococcal Vaccination

By Cleo Anna Marie E. Dy, MD & Sarah Makalinaw, MD

2013 marks the golden anniversary of the Philippine Pediatric Society (PPS). As part of the celebration, the 50th Philippine Pediatric Society Annual Convention was held April 14-17, 2013 at the Philippine International Convention Center, CCP Complex Pasay City. The said event was attended by more than 6,000 delegates coming from all over the Philippines.

The Philippine Foundation for Vaccination, in collaboration with the Confederation of Meningitis Organizations (CoMo), took part in the Annual Convention by being one of the exhibitors. The booth set up in the exhibit area calls on the delegates to voluntarily sign the petition of CoMo, which calls for the inclusion of meningococcal vaccination in the National Immunization Programs around the world. To sweeten the deal, the first 100 delegates to sign the petition were given a free 2nd edition Handbook on Adult Immunization for Filipinos.

Immunization is one of the weapons in a pediatrician's arsenal. Promotion of full vaccination is important in our battles against disease. Let's Join Hands and fight against Meningococemia!
